Are you feeling stuck in the same old patterns when it comes to relationships, intimacy, family or work? Are you ready (or need help to feel ready) to change and finally move forward? Meaningful personal progress begins with inner work. When unconscious roadblocks are unlocked, consciousness leads to feeling more empowered, liberated and impassioned. Our therapeutic process can enable you to tap into your vast human potential. I received my Masters in Psychology from Antioch University Los Angeles with the LGBT Specialization. I specialize in LGBT Affirmative therapy that addresses sexuality and gender issues, internalized homophobia, biphobia and transphobia, and how these internal phobias can relate to multiple oppressions such as racism and sexism. I work with LGBT identity development and how to empower the LGBT soul towards greater strength and liberation.
